Fun and Fascination: The Upper Delaware's First Annual Energy Fair is Coming September 8th

Lackawaxen, PA--It may look like and sound like your regular country fair, with live music, kids playing games, tasty chicken BBQ, but there's a twist to this one. After swinging to the tuneful sounds of featured band Basket Landing, you may want to stroll over to Stephen Stuart's presentation on renewable energy systems, and then perhaps over to Tom Holmes who will show you his ocean pressure generator and explain just how in the dickens it works. Learn about PennFuture's Cool Pennsylvania program. Marvel at the innovative gadgets that Daria Dorosh will have on display along with her splendid eco-artworks. Find out how you could be using wind-generated electricity now. Participate in a silent auction and bid on some very unique goods and services such as a solar site assessment. Learn how to save money while preserving our area's sublime beauty. Meet a variety of friendly, knowledgeable people who will share their expertise. Become part of a clean energy future. And don't forget to get some of that BBQ too!

The Upper Delaware Preservation Coalition (UDPC) is sponsoring the region's first annual Energy Fair, September 8th, in Lackawaxen, PA, at the Firemen's Field (off route 590), from noon til 6 pm. Admission is free. Chicken dinner is $10. Proceeds from the Silent Auction and Dinner will benefit UDPC.

UDPC is an award-winning 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization dedicated to preserving the Delaware River Valley for future generations. Currently UDPC is on the frontline in the battle against proposed high-voltage transmission lines running near and along the Delaware River. As part of that mission, UDPC believes that education and outreach about alternative energy, conservation and better practices for a better world, are essential. For more information about UDPC, please go to www.udpc.net

To make a tax-deductible donation of an item or service to the Silent Auction, or to purchase a ticket for the chicken BBQ dinner in advance, please contact Donald Jahn at 570-685-7900.

To set up a booth at the Energy Fair, please contact Adrienne Eisenberg at 570-685-3819.
If you are unable to attend the Energy Fair, you can still help UDPC by sending a tax-deductible donation to:
